

LOT 1167

A pair of Chinese blue and white porcelain vases, late 19th century, each shouldered tapering body and flared neck painted with a pair of dragons chasing a flaming pearl through vapours, between a pair of iron oxide washed Buddhistic lion handles, height 60cm (both repaired).

Estimate: £50 - £100

Condition Report

Vase 1 - It has been broken into numerous pieces and reglued with some chipping/losses and filling along the breaks. Handles intact. Some staining/discolouration to glaze.
Vase 2 - The neck has been broken and repaired, the breaks run through the handles. Some minor chipping/losses along break lines and some overpainting and filling. Otherwise body is in generally good order. Some staining/discolouration to glaze/
All of the damage is noticeable in the online images.

Created: Wed, 11th November 2026 09:51