

British and Continental Ceramics and Glass / Thursday, 19th April 2018 / Lot 1516

LOT 1516

A Mortlake silver mounted stoneware Punch Party jug, circa 1794, the baluster body moulded in relief with typical topping scenes, including a rectangular panel depicting 'Hogarth's Modern Midnight Conversation', the reeded neck applied with a silver collar and domed hinged lid with pierced thumbpiece, London 1794, height 24cm (minor chip to foot rim).

Estimate: £250 - £350

---

Condition Report

1516. Crack to lower handle terminal. One sprigged figure with minor chip to foot. One approx 1cm square chip to footrim exterior and a number of smaller nicks. Largish flat chip to base edge. Top edge of silver lid ever so slightly dented and with engraved stylized 'B'.

Created: Mon, 16th April 2018 14:19