LOT 1667

A Meissen porcelain two-handled vase and cover, early 20th century, the body painted with two panels of floral sprays within gilt scroll borders against a cobalt blue ground, flanked by two scroll handles with lion mask terminals, raised on a circular foot, the domed cover with a flowerbud finial, crossed swords in underglaze blue and incised 'K111' to base, height 40cm (repaired at base of main body).

Estimate: £100 - £150

Condition Report

1667. Overall the vase appears in good clean condition with only very minor light wear and surface scratches. However, there is a repair where the body meets the foot with some signs of minor chipping and restoration around this point. Otherwise, handles and finial are good. Good vibrant colours and gilt.
