LOT 2001

A pair of Regency rosewood pier tables, in the manner of Gillows of Lancaster, each white marble top above a mirrored back and a pair of column supports with flower cusp terminals, height 100cm, width 91.5cm, depth 43cm (some faults). Note: from the contents of Runnymede Park, Surrey.

Estimate: £800 - £1,200

---

2001. The marbles appear to be original and both have old, small nicks to the corners and edges. Both have a small piece of side moulding missing to the base of the rear pilasters and both also have substantial cracks to the veneer across the plinths. Otherwise just a few small nicks, scuffs and marks throughout.
