Condition Report

2009. General condition is good for a piece of this age, with overall typical surface cracks to the veneers and the sides, but generally quite original. Handles have been replaced at least once, leaving a filled hole and visible marks around existing handles. Locks and escutcheons could be original. Some evidence of woodworm to the pine backboards and a few minor repairs to veneers here and there. Replaced veneers and possibly whole foot on rear left side, as well as some typical old woodworm visible around areas of base.
