LOT 1893

"A gilt decorated cased glass vase, in the style of Thomas Webb, late 19th century, the gourd shaped body with ruby exterior and cream interior, decorated with a butterfly amidst prunus and pine, unmarked, height 18.3cm, a pair of ruby cased bottle vases, probably Harrach, decorated in low relief with gilt enriched blossom branches, enamelled marks to bases, one detailed 'T537', height 25cm, a pair of shaded yellow satin glass vases enamelled and gilt with butterflies amidst prunus blossom, enamelled 'W202' to bases, height 25.5cm, two Coraline bead decorated satin glass vases and two other pieces (some faults). Provenance: from the collection of John and Poppy Stallebrass."

Estimate: £150 - £250

Condition Report

Ruby and cream gourd vase - some minor surface scratches and light typical wear to decoration.

Pair ruby bottle vases - one in very good condition with a tiny loss to one relief petal, the other with more significant losses to the relief detail.

Pair shaded yellow vases - first with chips to two of the protruding notches, otherwise both ok.

Pink Coraline bead vase - significant losses to beads, otherwise ok.

Blue Coraline vase - actually not a Coraline piece, it is just enamelled decoration, it is worn with surface scratches, but otherwise ok.

White dish - gilding worn, otherwise ok.

Cornucopia vase - chipping to top rim edge, some losses of beads, gilding almost totally worn in places.
