LOT 1027

A Tibetan brown patinated bronze figural pendant of a healing horse, 12th/13th century, with traces of gilt, modelled standing four-square with saddle and tack, on an oval base, height 4.8cm. Provenance: the Alain Presencer Collection. Note: healing horses were used by Tibetan necromancers to indicate the source of pain in both human and animal patients.

Estimate: £200 - £300

Condition Report

1027 - The horse is in generally good condition commensurate with age. Typical surface scratches and wear, more pronounced on highpoints, but no significant damage or repairs. Total weight 78.1g.
