LOT 1128

A Chinese famille rose porcelain cylindrical brushpot, mark of Daoguang but probably 20th century, painted with a seated female figure with a tiger, heightened with gilt detail, iron red six-character seal mark to base, height 12cm, together with a Chinese famille verte porcelain cylindrical brushpot, early 20th century, painted with convolvulus, iron red six-character mark to base, height 12cm (faults).

Estimate: £100 - £150

Condition Report

1128 - Pot with figure and tiger ♦ some minor and light surface scratches, gilding rubbed/worn, otherwise in good condition overall with no cracks, chips or restoration.

Pot with flowers ♦ starcrack to body opposite main decoration. Tiny nick to top rim edge. Green enamels of painted decoration have misfired and are flaking/degraded ♦ please see the images on our website. There is some kiln waste adhered to the outer edge of the foot which is a manufacturing issue.
