

British and Continental Ceramics / Thu, 11th December 2025 / Lot 1425

LOT 1425

A Flight, Barr & Barr Worcester rosewater sprinkler, early 19th century, the ovoid body painted with a Pyne style peasant figure opposing scattered flowers, the covered spout gilt with foliate scrollwork and pierced with four holes, with high loop handle and circular foot on a square base, puce painted marks to base, height 10cm, together with three other pieces of Flight & Barr Worcester, comprising a miniature taperstick painted with a peasant figure and gilt with weed, height 3.8cm, a cabinet cup raised on three gilt paw feet painted with a titled view of Bothall (sic) Castle, Northumberland, between white beaded borders, height 7.5cm, and a claret ground pastille burner base, painted with a titled view of Beddgellert (sic) Bridge, N. Wales, height 7.5cm (faults and restoration throughout). Provenance: The Flight Collection.

Estimate: £80 - £120

Condition Report

Rosewater sprinkler - restoration to neck, handle and spout in varying degrees of professionalism, some small chips/nibbles to edge of square foot.

Taperstick - neck rim of taper holder very poorly restored and with indistinct vertical haircrack to taper holder.

Cabinet cup - approx one quarter section of neck rim above handle restored to a fairly high standard but noticeable if you look closely, lacking saucer.

Pastille burner - lacking cover, light scratches and wear otherwise generally ok.

Created: Thu, 4th December 2025 12:39