LOT 1446

A Doulton Lambeth stoneware oil lamp, late 19th century, of squat, compressed bulbous shape, decorated by Edith Lupton, monogrammed, with panels of stylized foliage and scrollwork, fitted with a 'Messengers Patent Duplex' burner mechanism, together with a glass chimney, impressed and incised marks to base, height to top of burner 18cm.

Estimate: £50 - £80

Condition Report

The pottery would benefit from a clean but otherwise fundamentally is in good condition overall with no cracks, chips or restoration. There is a small glazed over manufacturing chip to the outside edge of the foot approx 0.5cm long, and a few very minor and indistinct nicks to the foot edge which are inconsequential.

I cannot guarantee the state of the burner mechanism.

The glass chimney has a minuscule nick to the top rim edge.

There is no shade.
