

LOT 1612

A Ginori maiolica salt cellar centrepiece, late 19th century in 16th century style, of boat shape with an elaborate large mask surmounted by a goat's head to both ends, smaller masks surmounted by circular dishes to both sides of the middle circular aperture, the main body painted with merfolk and moulded with paw feet, raised on a canted square shaped base painted with geometric patterns, blue painted factory mark to base with numerals '46-52', height 21cm (minor faults).

Estimate: £80 - £120

Condition Report

In good condition overall with no restoration or significant damage.

The two circular dishes have small chips to their rim edges and there is minimal glaze loss/rubbing to the high points overall, e.g., the tops of the horns, noses and relief moulded detail.

Other minor fritting to edge of foot but nothing untoward or terrible.
